

November 25, 2014

Gallaghers Celebrates Growing #GivingTuesday Movement

The legendary NYC steakhouse plans special dinner to benefit NYU Langone Medical Center.

Somewhere between the gastronomic indulgences of Thanksgiving and the rampant consumerism of the Christmas season, there is an escalating movement to inspire us to give something back.

#GivingTuesday is only in its third year, but celebs like Edward Norton, Hugh Jackman, Jessica Alba and Kenneth Cole have all already joined in the efforts.

Fabled New York steakhouse Gallaghers will be celebrating in its own clever way, with a special dinner December 2nd that pays homage to its founding by Ziegfeld Girl Helen Gallagher and Vaudeville star Ed Gallagher 87 years ago. The menu will feature 1927 prices (save your appetite!), and the difference from current menu prices will be donated to the NYU Langone Medical Center. The latter's Chairman of the Board of Trustees Ken Langone will be on hand along with current Gallagher's owner Dean Poll to oversee the festivities.

Additional #GivingTuesday news can be found here.

