Walking into Gallagher's is like walking into a piece of NYC history. Opened in 1927, Gallagher's opened as a speakeasy during prohibition and evolved into one of the great steakhouses in America almost 90 years later (you'll know you're in the right place if you see their huge meat locker displaying all of the cuts of meat as you walk in). Along with being a classically great steakhouse comes classically great prime rib - just make sure you call and reserve your cut in advance, the prime rib is so good it sells out quickly!
